Something Good

Okay sis. This book is full of scenarios and nuance and many different ways to see how women are navigating life as they can, holding on to the faith they have...and some cases don't have yet.

Let's look at these stories a little closer:

- 1 If you think about Marquita, Alexis, and Trish and all the ways they've handled loss, love and life--who did you feel the most for?
- 2 Let's talk about mothers and daughters. How did each daughter -- Trish, Marquita and Alexis reflect how they experienced their mothers?
- 3 What do you think attributed to Dwayne and Trish pulling through in their marriage?
- 4 Why do you think - considering their differences - that Michael and Alexis got together? What was their binding quality?
- 5 What do you think Marquita struggles with most? What is impacting her attitude and approach to other people?
- 6 What would you say is the 'something good' of this story? What good thing did life give each of the characters in the story?
- 7 Do you think that Jon-Jon and Marquita are wise to advance their relationship past co-parents? Why or why not?
